

3D Modeling

PharmacoMedia develops anatomical 3D human models for medical communications programs. PharmacoMedia's 3D human imaging capabilities ensure that whether you need that perfect shot of a patient, concept, or situation to communicate your message, you won't be bound by a group limited in creativity to simply browsing clip art for something "close enough". Our team can create cartoon or photorealistic patients, 3D anatomical representations, or creative montages that are unique to your brand or program - with the assurance that the visuals will not be used two months later by a competitor who happens to shop at a low-budget stock art site.
